POLITICAL GOSSIP.

Bryan has explained the democratic platform. Wait until Parker takes another whack at it and see how far Bryan has missed it.

While Roosevelt is camping in the open at Oyster Bay, Parker is chasing his horse around the barn yard clad in his night shirt. Both are evidently fond of fresh air.

The Dispatch says: "If those who are placed in charge of Parker's campaign make no mistakes he will be elected." Who ever heard of a democratic campaign that was not full of mistakes. Parker has set the pace and the rest will follow.

Old man Davis is expected to put up $500,000 for a chance at the vice-presidency.

C. F. Murphy, of Tammany, is rather slow in congratulating Mr. Parker.

Henry Watson has sent Parker a few clippings from his paper. Wonder if Hearst will do the same.

Hearst, Belmont and Bryan now go hand-in-hand. Yellow journalism, trusts, and calamity howlers are all for Parker.

Frank A. Kennedy, editor of the Western Laborer and general organizer of the Federation of Labor, has sent his resignation to President Gompers. He wants to be free to make an effective campaign for Roosevelt.

Roosevelt has received the committee of the united mine workers of Pennsylvania, thus knocking in the head another democratic campaign lie.

Quotations from a Laborer editorial: "We must trust Roosevelt whose policy we do not yet know, rather than Parker, the sphinx, the policy of Dave Hill and the corrupt influences manifest in the Democratic convention.

The Western Laborer will support Theodore Roosevelt with all good power it possesses and will do its best to show Bryan's friends a way to rebuke his enemies.

The democrats missed the populists when it came to making a platform, but they will miss their votes a great deal worse in the November election.

The democratic convention said in their platform that the money question was eliminated from the campaign issues. Parker thought otherwise and rebuked them for their stupidity.

More laborers in America have bank accounts than in any other country in the world.

Roosevelt, Parker, Debs, Watson and Swallow are among the numerous candidates for the presidency.

A California delegate paid $7.50 to get his hair cut in St. Louis. He smiled, put in the bill at Hearst-head-quarters and got his money back before the vote for president was taken.

Hearst advises Carnegie to make a try for the presidency as a means of getting rid of his surplus cash.

Judge Parker has a bank account of but $30,000. Little consolation in that for democrats.

The fish still nibble at Grover's hook but he has lost his grip with the democrats.

L. R. E. Morley, a prominent banker of Des Moines Iowa was so overjoyed at Parker's nomination that he has since lost his reason. There were many democrats in the same fix before the nomination was made if we can believe Hearst, Bryan, et al.

Geo. A. Knight desires to test his voice in the United States senate chamber. If permitted to make the effort we will guarantee that he will be heard in the remotest corners of the building, defending the rights and privileges of the people in a manner becoming the great state which he will represent.

Hearst smiled and Bourke Cochran eulogized, but the Tammany tiger has proved a surly devil and will not even wiggle his tail. Handle him carefully Mr. Parker, keep yourself well oiled and he will swallow you the first opportunity.

Who It Was.
A well known New York clergyman was telling his Bible class the story of the prodigal son at a recent session, and wishing to emphasize the disagreeable attitude of the elder brother on that occasion, he laid especial stress on this phase of the parable. After describing the rejoicing of the household over the return of the wayward son, he spoke of one who, in the midst of the festivities, failed to share in the jubilant spirit of the occasion.

"Can anybody in the class," he asked, "tell me who this was?"

A small boy, who had been listening sympathetically to the story, put up his hand.

"I know," he said beamingly; "it was the fatted calf."—Harper's Weekly.

Speaker of Parliament.
It is not generally known that the speaker is always "Sir," even to the highest officials of the state. No one approaches him with a hat on, and if an M. P. passes him in the street the M. P. makes obeisance. His invitations to dinner are commands which involve the surrender of previous engagements and are not "accepted," but "obeyed." At his levee he stands looking very dignified in a black velvet suit, and M. P.'s, former M. P.'s and peers make their bows and pass on.—London Tit-Bits.

A COOL OFFICER.

He Faced an Angry London Mob and Got Fair Play.

During the reform riots in Hyde park, London, in 1836 the mob on a well remembered night began tearing down the fences of Hyde park for fires and barricades. Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson tells in the Atlantic Monthly of an English officer who was dining with a friend, all unconscious of the impending danger. Presently he received summons from the war department, telling him that his regiment was ordered out to deal with the mob.

He hastened back to his own house, but when he called for his horse he found that his servant had received permission to go out for the evening and had the key of the stable in his pocket. The officer hastily donned his uniform and then had to proceed on foot to the guards' armory, which lay on the other side of Hyde park. Walked hastily in that direction, he came out unexpectedly at the very headquarters of the mob, where they were already piling up the fences.

His uniform was recognized, and angry shouts arose. It must have seemed for the moment to the mob that the Lord had delivered their worst enemy into their hands.

There was but one thing to be done. He made his way straight toward the center of action and called to a man who was mounted on the pile and was evidently the leader of the tumult.

"I say, my good man, my regiment has been called out by her majesty's orders. Will you give me a hand over this pile?"

The man hesitated a minute and then said, with decision: "Boys, the gentleman is right. He is doing his duty, and we have no quarrel with him. Lend a hand, and help him over."

This was promptly done, with entire respect, and the officer in brilliant uniform went hastily on his way amid these cheering shouts of the mob. Then the mob returned to its work, to complete it if possible before he whom they aided should come back at the head of his regiment and perhaps order them to be shot down.

POKER CHIPS.

There are more than four "knaves" to the pack in some games.

In big hands, as with big guns, you want to look out for the recoil.

The moral motto, "Deal as you would be dealt by," is classed as the "joker" in a poker pack.

It is awfully bad form, you know, to let the loss of a few chips make you look as cross as if you thought you were getting the double one.

May be good advice to "bet your hand for all it is in a lady who is a mighty dangerous thing to bet it for all or more than you are worth.

Notice asks which is the right way to cut the cards. Our experience teaches us, my boy, that the right way and at the same time the only safe one is to cut them precisely as does a glided hog a shabby acquaintance.—New York Herald.

A Japanese Legend.
The renown of the Japanese for courage was as remarkable in Marco Polo's day as it is in the present. He narrates the story of an invasion of the country by the forces of the khan of Tartary. A Japanese army of 30,000 men was besieged in a tower. Refusing to surrender, they fought until all but eight of them were killed. On these eight—travelers' wonders must creep in—it was found impossible to inflict any wound. "Now, this was by virtue of certain stones which they had in their arms, inserted between the skin and the flesh. And the charm and truth of these stones were such that those who wore them could never perish by steel." They were therefore beaten to death with clubs.

Making It Clear.
On board an ocean steamer ship a gentleman wished to sit to a lady who was of an inquiring mind to comprehend the principle of the steam engine. This is how he cleared away all difficulties: "Why, you see, ma'am," quoth he, "it's just one thing goes up and then another thing comes down, and then they let the smoke on, which makes the wheels go round. That's what they call the hydraulic principle. It's quite simple when you know it."

"Law me! I never understood it before. But, then, I never had it properly explained," replied the fair listener. —Tit-Bits.

Realism Explained.
"That was a splendid back fall you made in your death scene last night," remarked a young member of the company to the eminent tragedian. The latter looked at the flatterer with a suspicious glare.

"Yes," he said, "I'd like to lay my hands on the blithering idiot who soaped the stage floor."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Cautious Youth.
"Bobby, your father wants to see you." The boy looked dubious.

"Do I want to see him?" he asked. "How should I know?"

"You ought to be able to tell by the look in his eye."—Chicago Post.

Out of Her Line.
"So you were at Mrs. Marrable's dining yesterday, Flossie. What was the menu like?"

"I really can't tell you, for I didn't take any. It's a thing I very seldom touch."

The Wing of a Bird.
The typical vertebrate limb, variously modified in the arm of a man or the fore limb of a cat or frog or bird, has one bone in the upper arm, which gives support to two in the forearm, which similarly yield to four at the wrist, and from these five digits can just comfortably be extended. The bird, however, decided to fly rather than grasp with its hand, so that three and a half fingers are all it has retained of the five which its reptilian ancestors bequeathed to it.

BUYING RUBIES IN BURMA.

A Peculiar Method of Bargaining For the Precious Stones.
The peculiar business methods of oriental merchants are illustrated by the manner of buying rubies in Burma. In the examination of rubies artificial light is not used, the merchants holding that full sunlight alone can bring out the color and brilliancy of the gems. Sales must therefore take place between 9 a. m. and 3 p. m., and the sky must be blue.

The purchaser, placed near a window, has before him a large copper plate. The sellers come to him one by one, and each empties upon this plate his little bag of rubies. The purchaser proceeds to arrange them for valuation in a number of small heaps. The first division is into three grades, according to size. Each of these groups is again divided into three piles, according to color, and each of these piles in turn is again divided into three groups, according to shape. The bright copper plate has a curious use.

The sunbeams reflecting from it through the stones bring out with true rubies a color effect different from that with red spinels and tourmalines, which are thus easily separated.

The buyer and seller then go through a very peculiar method of bargaining by signs, or, rather, grips, in perfect silence. After agreeing upon the fairness of the classification they join their right hands, covered with a handkerchief or the day's garment, and by grips and pressures mutually understood among all these dealers they make, modify and accept proposals of purchase and sale. The hands are then uncovered and the prices are recorded.—Jewelers' Circular-Weekly.

JAPANESE PROVERBS.
They Are More Picturesque in Language Than Ours.
"Roses have thorns" and "Walls have ears" are as common in the Japanese speech as in our own. We say "More haste, less speed," but the Japanese phrase is "If in a hurry go round." In this country we very often remark that "accidents will happen in the best regulated families." The Japs, on the other hand, with an eye to the picturesque, vitalize it, so to speak, in their "Even a monkey sometimes falls from a tree." One of our useful English sayings is "Those who play with edged tools must expect to cut their fingers."

In expressing a similar thought the Jap goes one better so far as picturesqueness is concerned. He says, "If you keep tigers you are likely to have trouble." One of our standard maxims is to the effect that "oil and water won't mix." The Japs have not improved on this. "You can't rivet a nail in a custard" is their way of putting it. "The lotus springs from the mud" is their poetical expression of the common thought that "out of evil good may come."

What could be more suggestive and at the same time so poetic as their "Scattering a fog with a fan?" When a Jap undertakes the impossible his neighbors do not scoff at him or mock him. They simply say that he is "building bridges to the clouds" or that he is "dipping up the ocean with a shell." Failure in such a country must be as delightful as success in our more material land. "Thine own heart makes the world" is worthy of Emerson or Browning.—Rochester Post-Express.

A Korean Custom.
In some parts of Korea, and among some Korean families, it is the custom for bridegrooms to dwell under the roofs of their fathers-in-law until the first son has been born and attained to years of manhood. Should any Korean, however, stay in the house of his bride's people for more than three days after his wedding, he is compelled to remain for an entire year.

Too Violent an Innovation.
"You told me you had an original idea in your novel."
"I had," was the reply, "but the publisher discovered it in the proof sheets and made me take it out."—Washington Star.

THE STOOPIST HABIT.

It Is One of the Things That Make Men Grow Old Quickly.
Dr. Madison J. Taylor, giving general advice to the aged in the Popular Science Monthly, says in effect that old people do not stoop because they are old, but they get old because they stoop.

The stiffening of the tissues, which is the sign and accompaniment of age, is warded off by exercise. Self-indulgence in eating and drinking and in lazy ways is the sure road to senility. "I have often been surprised and gratified," writes the doctor, "to find that regulated movements of the neck and upper trunk muscles, employed for the purpose of accomplishing something else, resulted in a conspicuous improvement in hearing, in vision, in cerebation and, as a consequence, in a betterment in cerebral circulation, also in sleep."

"Persons who habitually maintain an erect position in standing or sitting are stronger than those who slouch. A person who stoops and allows the shoulders to sag down and forward and the ribs to fall back toward the spine shortens the anteroposterior diameter of the thorax anywhere from two to five inches. The lungs, heart, great vessels and other important structures in the thorax cannot live, move and have their proper being under such circumstances."

Wherefore the proper thing for persons who are not so young as once they were is to brace up, dress young and feel young. Sitting "hunched up" over a fire won't

THE LIQUOR LICENSE QUESTION

The new license ordinance goes into effect next month. Saloon keepers are taking the necessary steps to comply with its provisions. Petitions are being circulated by the business men concerned, with accompanying bonds, ready to be presented to the supervisors at their meeting next month. The present liquor ordinance is mainly a rehash of the previous one, except the amending of the title, and the omission of the clause providing for the publication of the application. As the time for the enforcement of the ordinance draws near, its provisions are being critically examined for the purpose of finding an opening to successfully contest it. The license payers generally are as bitterly opposed to the amended law as they were to the previous enactment. They see in it nothing more than an attempt to hamper them, without the slightest compensating advantages to the county treasury or the public for the extra trouble entailed upon them. As a matter of fact the treasury will lose by the shutting up of bars in connection with merchandise stores, where the owners prefer to dispense with liquor selling rather than submit to the humiliation of packing round a petition for signatures among neighbors and hunting up bondsmen. The idea of asking neighbors for permission to engage in business is galling to human pride. "We have been told that a number of the class referred to will not demean themselves to that extent, and will quit. They are the quietest and most orderly places where the liquor selling business is carried on. The reformers, who agitated for this hampering ordinance, never contemplated the closing of these bars.

There is every reason to believe that the ordinance will be contested in the courts. It is claimed that it is fatally defective, and cannot be enforced. Among the flaws detected we may mention that the ordinance makes no provision for the disposal of the license money. Who gets the license collections? The sheriff collects, but it fails to state what he shall do with the money after it is collected. It nowhere says that the license is a debt due the county, and may be sued for as any other indebtedness. Must the collector keep the whole amount in his hands indefinitely? The inference, in the absence of a provision that he pay it into the treasury, is that it belongs to him. What can be done with one refusing or neglecting to pay? Is Amador county in a position to sue under the circumstances? No doubt a test case will be made as soon as the time is ripe for such a movement.

To the people of Jackson the middle again suggests the propriety of the incorporation of the town. That business and property values should be kept in a turmoil, and citizens harassed by the passage of onerous laws, without any apparent necessity, and upon the recommendation of non-residents having no material interests at stake here, is, to say the least, irritating. We contribute one-third of the license revenue of the county, and more than a third of the road fund of this district. We are paying enough through these taxes to sustain a city government, which would give us the privilege of managing such matters in our own way. We are denied that privilege. Why not incorporate, and end this system of bondage.

FLOUNDERING DEMOCRACY.

The guiding spirits of democracy, in the so-called declaration of principles, commonly known as a platform, have presented the most striking example of abandonment of principle for policy ever witnessed in a national convention. Their action carries the idea that they met, not for the purpose of formulating a set of political truths in plain and unmistakable language, upon which to invite the support of citizens in accord therewith, but rather for the purpose of stringing together a lot of phrases, purporting to deal with the issues of the day, but which might be twisted to conform with the individual views of any voter. The convention acted, not only upon a misapprehension of human nature, but in violation of common honesty. Its platform fabric was deliberately built on the theory that men love darkness rather than light. It is true that some men are built that way, but they are not numerous enough in this country to elect a president. We do not believe that a political organization which seeks to build itself up from a minority to a majority party, will accomplish much by a brazen-faced endorsement of such a doctrine. Outside of political manipulators—men who make a business of political intrigue for the purpose of gaining their own selfish ends—such a course will command scant endorsement. It is a libel upon human nature. It will alienate instead of attract voters. The democratic party at St. Louis was in a dilemma. It generally manages to work itself into a trap at the critical time. The money and tariff issues have been deemed vital for years. The platform makers at St. Louis engaged in the impossible task of framing a document embodying many subjects that would satisfy everybody. It was to be elastic enough to conform to the views of the several factions in the party. Such a task has never been successfully accomplished in the political history of any nation. It was party suicide to attempt it. No individual republican or democrat expects to meet a platform that exactly corresponds with his notions. There must always be a difference of opinion within the party lines. It is only on what are deemed leading issues that the members of a political organization are expected to agree. Outside of vital points, both republicans and democrats entertain divergent views. It must always be so. Human nature is so constituted that no two persons can think or believe exactly the same on more than one subject. On one paramount proposition voters must array themselves on one side or the other—either for or against. But when a number of propositions are introduced, which is always the case with a party platform supposed to embody a national policy, differences must not only arise, but be tolerated. The individual voter must array himself with the party whose platform comes nearest to meeting his ideas on essential points. It is a vital matter, however, that the party in its platform deal honestly with the individual member, by setting forth the various planks in clear and decisive terms. This is just what the St. Louis convention tried not to do, and succeeded admirably. They preferred deception to straightforwardness. They sacrificed principle, and took the straddle-everything path. Their presidential candidate hastened to protest against a money plank that aimed to accommodate everybody. He clearly announced himself for the gold standard. He stands with the republicans on that issue, while the platform upon which he was nominated stands for nothing in particular. The candidate, not the platform, therefore constitutes the issue on this matter. Democracy has succeeded in making itself the laughing stock of the country in a pre-eminent degree. Democrats of conviction are falling away from a party without convictions. The populists will have nothing to do with it; the labor unions refuse to be drawn into its folds by meaningless platitudes. The truth is the democrats have lost heart before the fight has fairly commenced. We expect to see Roosevelt elected by a larger majority than that given for McKinley four years ago.

"MIGHT HAVE BEEN" INTERVIEWS
Grover Cleveland: "I heartily endorse the platform. I said less on the issues of the day, myself. It is eloquently obscure, ambiguously portentous. Any body could stand on it. In fact, I expect the Republicans to jump on it with both feet. Judge Parker is an ideal candidate. Politically, he is a theory, not a condition, and innocuously impotent. His vacuous unversity will commend him to the unsophisticated Where-are-we-attends."

D. B. Hill: "I am a Democrat. In fact I am THE Democrat. I don't know what Judge Parker's views are, but it doesn't matter. They will fit the platform. It is a masterpiece of negative and circumlocutionary utterance. Judge Parker is bound to be elected. He will carry Wolffert's Root."

William J. Bryan: "I will support the ticket, Parker is a minion of Wall street, and the apostle of a diabolical commercialism. He is a political coward, and a slave to the worst foes of the nation, but I will support him just to show how magnanimous I am. The platform is weak, if not vicious, but nobody is going to stand on it anyway. The democratic party can't stand on it, because the party is for free trade and free silver, and Judge Parker can't stand on it because he is for gold and the trusts. Hurrah for the platform! Hurrah for Parker! Three cheers and a tiger for me!"

Senator Tillman: "D—n Parker! D—n the platform! D—n everybody! D—n everything! I shall take the platform for Parker, of course. D—n! D—n! D—n!"

Judge Parker: "I am the nominee, that is the principal thing. Nothing else matters much. Of course, I don't approve of the platform, but I'm not running on a platform, anyway. I am running on a Western Union telegram. My views? Here is my horse: good-bye!"—Globe Democrat.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

WORKMAN ASSAULTED.

William Willis, an Employee of the Fremont, Maltreated on his way to Work, and Told to Leave the County.

The first outrage in connection with the labor trouble at the Fremont Consolidated mine occurred Wednesday morning. The victim was William Willis, and the assaulters are two union men named Thad McLean and J. Durban. Both Fremont men. McLean had been in Amador some months, working at the Keystone. On the morning of the assault he drew his wages coming to him, $90, and quit, saying he was going back to Colorado. Durban is also a native son of Colorado; he was an employee of the Keystone, and had been in Amador only seven days.

Willis is or was a member of the Amador City Miners' Union. He was an employee at the mine at the time of the shut down. He lives in Amador City, and has a wife and four children. When the mine started up Sunday with non-union help from the outside, he applied for work and was refused. Unlike the other workers, who were boarded and lodged on the company's ground, Willis undertook to travel to and fro between his home and the mine, as he had done before the labor trouble occurred. Wednesday morning he left his home, near the school house in Amador to proceed to the mine, which is over a mile distant. Reaching the top of the hill overlooking the town, he was stopped by two men, who proceeded to beat him over the head with a pistol. After beating him into submission they marched him to the main Drytown road, gave him $3 to pay his stage fare, and told him to get out of the county; that if he did not leave they would kill him. The blows on the head—thanks to a thick lining in his hat—did not inflict serious injury. He reported what had occurred as soon as he reached Drytown, his assistants withdrawing as soon as the road was reached. The stage which he was expected to board had left before Willis arrived, so he could not leave. He had no intention of leaving. He was badly scared, and was in hiding in McWayne's store when the sheriff reached Drytown.

Superintendent Goodall, of the Fremont mine, finding that Willis had not shown up for work as usual, and hearing rumors that he had been waylaid and beaten, telephoned the facts to Sheriff Norman, who immediately left with deputy Jackson to look into the matter. The assaulters told Willis that they were on their own responsibility; that the union as such had nothing to do with the attack. Durban held Willis, while McLean pounded him over the head with a gun. The officers failed to find the two men. It is supposed they are in hiding. One was reported to be at work in the Keystone mine Wednesday afternoon. He failed to come up at the change of shift. The officers are confident of catching them.

Sheriff Norman returned home Thursday evening, without either of the men. Durban is supposed to be in the Keystone, and McLean hiding in or near Amador City. There is no question whatever who is to blame; the contrary, that a determined effort is being made to screen the thugs.

Cleansing Amador City.

On Monday last the filthy condition of Amador creek was brought to the attention of the board of supervisors who requested the district attorney to look into the matter and take such steps as he thought proper to change the stream from a cess pool of filth and disease to one of purity and beauty. According on Tuesday Mr. Vincini wended his way to the little village of Amador and found here people fully alive to the fact that something must be done to better its sanitary condition. Coal oil, turpentine, assafetida and salt were being used to drive the germs of contagion from this center of filth. Some thought the flies should first be exterminated; others believed that the mosquito was the spreader of all disease and advocated putting them into a pen made of wire gauze and cropping their wings to prevent their escape. A boarding house keeper suggested that all bed-bugs and fleas be requested to leave the town at once, or placed under a boycott for an indefinite period of time. A thousand and one other suggestions were made in rapid succession and the district attorney was almost as a sphinx, not being able all the while to get in a word edgewise. At last he spoke and his sentiment was approved by all. The creek should be flushed with 100 inches of water. Remove the filth and the filthy insects and disease germs would go with it. Superintendent Lynch at once agreed to furnish men and implements to loosen the sand and other obstructions in the creek. It was then agreed to furnish the water and no doubt by to-day (Friday) noon, the little city of Amador is one of the cleanest towns in the county. What Amador has done other towns can do. The creeks that run through Jackson should be thoroughly cleaned occasionally. One of them is now in a filthy condition. Typhoid and malaria are always present where filth reigns supreme.

Slaughtering Doves.

RITCHEY, July 17.
A week ago we read with pleasure an editorial concerning the dove season. Truly, any one who has observed the habits of these birds is forced to one of two conclusions concerning the enactment of the present laws and "open seasons." Either the laws were framed and passed in the interest and to suit the pleasure of "city sports," or else our state legislators are what we once heard a witty, sensible old man call them—"The most learned fools that the political bosses can find."

The first brood of young doves can fly well now, but every old pair is busy either hatching or feeding the second brood. It is possible that it is not generally known that doves raise two broods of young each year? Do not the people know that young doves must be fed like young pigeons until they can fly on "pigeon milk," partly digested food which the old bird pours from its bill into the open bill of its young? Do you not know, you hunters, that whenever you kill an old dove at this season, you condemn to death by starvation and thirst the helpless young ones in its nest. Think of it! Oh, if you could be made to hang and thirst with no relief for a couple of days, you might realize the untold torture you needlessly inflict on the most harmless of all birds.

The bag limit is 50. That is nothing short of criminal sanction of ruthless slaughter. What family can eat fifty doves at a meal? Ten would be at least sufficient for any family of ten civilized human beings. But even supposing the bag limit were 25, it would be at least within the pale of decency.

We were talking with a farmer who owns a farm near here, and who has signs all over his place warning out hunters because he wishes to keep the grain but on the seeds of weeds, mustard and rape particularly. Disregarding the warnings dove hunters hide their rigs and sneak in over back fences. He told us that since July 1st he has picked up more than 100 doves in his fields which hunters had wounded so that they died, and he added, "Almost every tree has a nest with little ones dead from starvation in it." He told us that henceforth he would send the constable after any one he caught hunting on his place. And we hope he will. Everywhere we went it was the same. We interviewed a number of farmers and land owners. All were indignant at the way the hunters slaughter the doves. All were agreed that the dove season should not open before August 15th, and that the bag limit should at least be reduced one-half. Many expressed the wish that the dove season be protected at all times; that it be made unlawful to shoot one at any time.

The meadow lark that destroys hundreds of acres of grain every spring is protected, while the gentle dove that does no harm to anything is being rapidly exterminated. We do not see one now where five years ago there were five hundred. Let the slaughter be ended. Get our legislators to substitute lark for dove and dove for lark, and thereby serve the best interests of the people.

The work of improving the M. E. church has been at a standstill for some time owing to the non-arrival of mill works, such as doors, windows, etc. Wednesday A. H. Kuhlman, the contractor, received the shipping receipt for the windows, which were made by a Lodi firm, and they are expected to reach here by the end of the week. He also got the shipping receipt for the rolling doors from a firm in New York, so that everything needed for the completion of the work is now on the road. A double force will be employed as soon as the needed material arrives, and the church will be rushed to completion as speedily as possible. It is intended to have the dedicating services the latter part of August.

A stack of hay, containing between 120 and 130 bales and valued at over $200, was destroyed by fire in the ranch of Geo Drendel, near Clinton yesterday. There was no insurance. Mr. and Mrs. Drendel were in Jackson when the fire occurred. It is supposed to have been caused by an incendiary. Geo Drendel lost his house and barn last October by fire. Deputy sheriff Jackson went to the scene yesterday afternoon and in the evening returned with a prisoner who is supposed to be the fire bug.

Fremont Strike Broken.

The strike at the Fremont Consolidated—which has been on for over three months—was broken last Saturday. It will be remembered that the strike was called owing to a demand made upon the superintendent that one man—who had been expelled from the union for non-payment of dues—be discharged. The request was refused. Like all other mines in the county except one, the Fremont had been working on the open-shop basis. No distinction was made between union and non-union men. The underground men quit, and mining operations came to a standstill. The engineers, however, remained at their posts, declining to take part in the strike, and the mine was kept free from water. A few days thereafter the obnoxious miner left the locality, and the cause of the trouble was thereby removed. The men signified their willingness to return to work when another hitch occurred. It was insisted that the strikers without exception be given their old places. This the management could not agree to. Superintendent Goodall said the men must apply as individuals and each application would be dealt with on its merits, and the men put to work as they were needed. The union rejected this proposition, and the strike was declared still on. No effort was made to resume work underground, but surface work in cutting a large ditch to carry off the tailings from the mine was started, and gave employment to a number of men; several of the men so employed belonging to the original striking force. This work was urgent before mining could be resumed as the tailings had piled up on private land, and were a ground of complaint. It was understood that when this outlet for the tailings was finished the mine would be started.

Saturday last a carload of non-union men was brought up from San Francisco. The men were hired to work at the Fremont. There were 49 men in the car. At a point half a mile before reaching Carbondale the car—which was the last car in the train—was detached, and left on the track, the train continuing on to Carbondale. At this point the men were all debarked, and the train after taking a survey as far as the Carbondale station, returned for the empty car and proceeded on its way. At Carbondale there were several wagons, provided with seats, and in these the imported men were taken from Carbondale to the Fremont mine—a distance of twelve miles—without any interference whatever.

Sheriff Norman and deputy Jackson were at the Fremont when the men arrived. The news of the shipment of strike breakers bruited through the county before the men actually reached their destination. It was thought for a time that there would be trouble, and the officers were on the ground as a precautionary measure. No trouble whatever occurred. The men on strike were advised not only by the peace officers of the county, but also by Marion Moore of the Western Federation, not to molest the newcomers in any way—not to talk to them even. The new hands went to work Sunday afternoon, and everything has been running smoothly up to this writing. The mine will soon be placed on its old-time working basis.

Drowned in Mokelumne.

L. C. Hyner, formerly superintendent of the Mitchell mine near Pine Grove, was drowned in the Mokelumne river near that town on Tuesday afternoon. It appears that the deceased and W. Ludekens went to the river on a fishing excursion. They selected as the place of sport a spot at Bald rock, a slippery place overhanging the stream, and where the current is swift. While fishing Hyner fell into the water. The accident was seen by his companion. Owing to the swiftness of the stream and the isolation at the particular point, there was little chance of saving himself, even if he were a swimmer. His companion was powerless to help him. He was swept down the river, and no doubt drowned. Up to Wednesday morning his body had not been recovered. Search parties were out along the river banks looking for the body.

Deceased was about 30 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children at Pine Grove. He has been a resident of that section about five years.

The body was recovered Wednesday afternoon. The funeral will take place in Pine Grove this afternoon.

Death of Chas. Hottinger.

Chas. Hottinger, of Amador City, died Thursday morning of typhoid fever, after having been sick about ten days. For many years Mr. Hottinger has been the all-around handy man at the Keystone mine and mill. Of late his work has been mostly in the mill. About ten days previous to his death he was taken with what was supposed to be malaria, and nothing serious was thought of the matter until three days before his death, when it was discovered that he was a victim of typhoid. The disease had reduced him physically to such a condition that medicine could do nothing for him. Mr. Hottinger was born and raised near Santa Rosa, Sonoma county, to which place he moved as an important meeting. Gifford Pinchot, who is known in Sacramento in connection with the public land matters and forestry reserves, heads the president's commission.—Sacramento Union.
